DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on March 1, 2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 2 – 11 and 13 – 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

With respect to claim 15, the applicant states that “the absorbent body comprises a layer so that only a rear portion of the absorbent layer is split into a first leg and a second leg...”. This language suggests that since the absorbent body comprises a layer, then only the rear portion of the absorbent layer is split into a first leg and a second leg. However, the originally filed disclosure provides for a rear portion of the absorbent body having a layer that is split into a first leg and a second layer (see page 4, lines 16 – 18). It is unclear if the applicant intends to suggest that any absorbent body having a layer in the rear portion is considered as meeting the claimed limitation. Correction and/or clarification are required.

Claims 2 – 11 and 13 – 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

With respect to claim 15, the applicant claims “the absorbent layer” in line 9. Does the absorbent body contain (1) a layer and (2) an absorbent layer? It is unclear what the applicant intends to claim as an invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 2 – 6, 11 and 13 – 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Drevik (WO 99/25282).

As to claim 2, Drevik discloses an absorbent article with an elastic member (18) as claimed.

The applicant is reminded that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 312 F.2d 937, 939, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

The examiner contends that Drevik is fully capable of bending the rear portion in a substantially parabolic shape since it too has an elastic member meeting the claimed limitations and is fully capable of performing the recited function.

As to claims 3 and 4, see figures 6 – 11.

With reference to claim 5, see page 14, lines 25 – 30.

Regarding claim 6, see page 7, lines 21 – 25.

As to claim 11, see page 6, lines 10 – 12.

With reference to claim 13, see the figures. Since the folding lines are formed by removing material (thereby creating a first and second leg), the examiner contends that the angle would in fact be identical to the one claimed in a transverse plane.

As to claim 14, the examiner contends that since the folding lines are formed by removing material (thereby creating a first and second leg), that the first and second legs would be identical to those claimed (i.e. substantially coplaner).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7 – 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Drevik (WO 99/25282).

The difference between Drevik and claims 7 – 10 is the provision that the article has a specific angle, a specific leg length, and a specific ridge length and width.

The examiner contends that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the angle of Drevik to provide the dimensions as claimed since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable range involves only a level of ordinary skill in the art.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Michele Kidwell whose telephone number is 571-272-4935. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday thru Friday.
